

Together with residents involved in the library transformation the architectural project was developed. With citizens help the four types of space were defined for the further library use:

- > "living room": space for small meeting and small talks
- > "lectorium": space for lecture, workshops and individual work
- > "reading room": space for books, reading and individual work
- > "kids room": special kids area
- > "training room": space for workshops and training

Space transformation project: reading room

Space transformation project: living room and lectorium

To start the renovation of the library according to the architectural project together with library stuff, we have checked the whole book collection and found the half of the books are outdated and not used at all by visitors. Removing them from the library we made the space free for new ideas.

Partly financed by a grant and partly by citizens itself the renovation of the space is to be started in March 2016.
