

The ditch along the park is used to irrigate rainwater and create a wild, untamed urban nature

In dry periods, the blackcurrant ditch can be used for playing

The ditch is a communal city garden where locals can pick edible fruits and berries

By transforming the park's lawn area into an oval bowl and a creating a ditch alongside the park, it is possible to withhold the rainwater and relieve the sewage

In dry periods, the scene can be used for social gatherings and physical activity

Under the scene there is a water retention basin that protects the sewage system from overflowing
