

Courtyard City Hall
Poznań, Poland

Green oasis, street café, community centre, public square. These are the new incarnations of the Courtyard City Hall which was transformed from a car park into a meeting place for residents. The Courtyard located in the Old Town received a second life: it became an open, multifunctional public space.

The square has been furnished with a family of objects referring to different needs of groups of users. With a round big bench around the existing flowerbed and mobile seats that can be formed into amphitheatrical arrangement together with a podium. These elements may be used for seating, lying or cascade sitting referring to the scheme of auditorium in theatre.

All objects were put amongst flora, trees planted in flowerpots and high grass that give intimacy and cosiness to the urban interior.
