Like many towns in Catalonia, Torrelles de Llobregat was created from a rolled vertebral axis, the highway (the main street), where the houses and streets of the town grew. Originally destined for low density housing, it has been modernizing over time. Due to the geography of the place, the displacement with a vehicle is important and therefore also the need for parking. At the moment, there are plans for more construction projects. Currently, the street acts as a zone of car park.
