

collective process

The project of the future “plaza” has been developed by neighbours, local administration and a technic team that have been working mutually. “Sembra Orriols” is a co-design process that aims to sow the seeds for a new future for the neighbourhood.

Collective process: “Sembra Orriols” promoted by the Valencia City Council in 2016 carried out by neighbours with the support of local administration and a technic team.

Stage 1. Rethinking green areas.

Stage 2. Proposing uses and management of the future “plaza”.

Stage 3. Building a 1:1 scale ephemeral model to test the designed space.

Stage 3. Assessing the proposal. Collective approval.
