

The integration of the motorway in the polder landscape has been conceived using only these catalogued interventions. The motorway thus becomes one more layer added to a man-made landscape.

The infrastructural elements are not camouflaged with vegetation, instead the infrastructure project becomes an opportunity to create more landscape.

