

Cascades add oxygen to water and their edges form a rich habitat for wildlife

Exuberent wildflower meadows contrast with simple concrete structures and retaining walls with gabions

View towards the wetland plantations edging the great lawn from the terrace & building by Agence 1er Architectures

Above: a rich and biodiverse range of natural environments are established in the floodable hollows of the park

Above: plantations on the shady terrace near the historical chateau.

The amphitheatre to the left, and pivoting ornamental gates to separate spaces

Customised slides on the play hill

Above: varied activities and facilities are installed on the platforms and urban balconies

Below: Ha-Has, water features and level changes create park boundaries without fences, allowing its closure at night, whilst retaining open views across the park from all directions

K068 - The Park of the Docks at Saint Ouen, France

Landscape Architect: Agence Ter / Client-Developer : Séquano Aménagement / Owner: Town of Saint Ouen sur Seine

