

K299 STAGE : СЦЕHA

Experimental public space in an abandoned part of the park.

Author: STAGE : СЦЕHA community

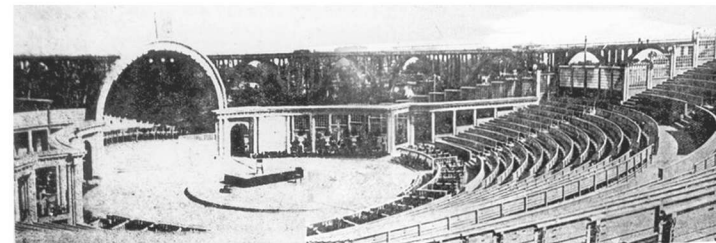

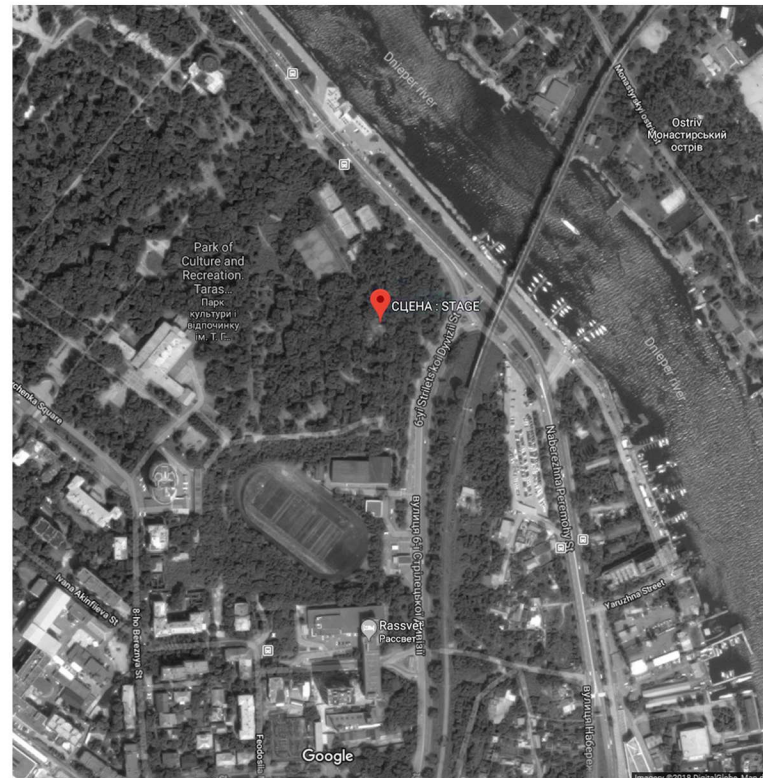

Developer: NGO Kultura Medialna and citizens of Dnipro

Location: Dnipro, Ukraine

Year: 2017

STAGE : СЦЕHA is an experimental public space that allows anyone to organize an event of any format. It's built in an abandoned part of the park on top of the ruins of an old Soviet amphitheater in Dnipro, Ukraine. It was designed together with citizens of Dnipro and a group of international architects and was built with the help of its future users. It is a temporary wooden structure. Beyond the stage itself, we designed a place for movie screenings, lectures, spaces for workshops, exhibitions and music concerts. All cultural programs are free and are prepared by local communities.

On the roof we designed a gigantic acoustic tube, similar to those in old gramophones. It adds the audio element to the construction. Anyone can attach their small source of sound and instantly play it.

Old Green Theatre scene 1927 — 1942
Rebuilt few times. Purged in 1942.

Site in spring 2017

Old concrete piece in centre was reconstructed in mid. 1970 as local pioneer camping place.