

City making is engaging in the city as a process. In On-Site-Workshops Urban School teaches skills and happens in the everyday environment of the citizens. Practical skill transmission is embedded in conversations addressing commoning, co-production and urban governance.

