

Parc Mansfeld

City of Luxembourg

Grand-Duchy of Luxembourg

VILLE DE
LUXEMBOURG
www.vdl.lu

multiplcity

Opening of the Mansfeld Park

C: New in situ temporary use of the stones stocked on site after archeological excavations and meeting requirements formulated in the participation workshop such as: visualising the pavillons of the Saint Peter fountain, something to climb on, sit on, lay down on...

A © Unknown

B © Charles Soubry

© Charles Soubry

View of the site after transformation

C © Charles Soubry

D © Paulo Lobo / Luxedit

The site after the transformation

A+D: A fence, which opens up on some views of the château's remains, separates the park from ancient buildings currently under renovation, as well as with future archaeological excavations, without hindering the use of the park. Placed as a permanent exhibit on this fence, visitors are given an insight into the development on this part of the city from the Middle Ages to our days, and in particular during the Renaissance and under the regency of Count Pierre-Ernest de Mansfeld.

B: pétanque track