

EVALUATION

Not only does the project itself represent one of the first architecturally designed structures in open public space near the river, but it has also started the discussion about the need for these kind of space and has animated the City administration to start new initiatives of the small scale interventions. The students animated the locals to expand the range of new activities and to improve the level of coastal preservation. Since the structure has been constructed, the place, which was neglected and sorted in one of the dangerous parts of the cities, became used daily by wide range profile of users during the entire day, and it is slowly getting a label as one of the most representative places in Banja Luka.

Effects of intervention

