A small team quickly built on the asphalt a rectangle of pallets covered with a banner.

Different uses: stage for improvisation theater, concerts, projections.

The Bath transformed the street into a splattering place, proved as an irresistible watery playground for kids and adults.