

Barkingside Town Centre is a strategic project to enhance the public spaces and civic identity of Barkingside, a suburban town centre on the edge of East London.

We have transformed underused spaces into lively and inhabitable ones, in the process boosting the cultural and economic offer of the high street and rehabilitating the existing 1960s civic buildings such that their public spaces and frontages are as generous as their interiors.

A new town square and high street park reframe and revitalise the town's 1960s civic buildings, whilst a series of strategic urban design and shopfront commissions extend the project's impact into the high street and surrounding green belt.

Commissions (in the landscape)

Town Square

Virginia Gardens Park

Commissions (in the High Street)

