THE AREA OF THE FORMER JEWISH GHETTO
BIRD'S-EYE VIEW SUGGESTS AN OPEN HAND ➔

Looking from above the urban space, streets and squares, the former Jewish Ghetto bordered between via Rizzoli, via Zamboni, via Marsala and via Oberdan, through a graphic synthesis process we get a helping hand. Specifically, the hand becomes the symbol of things handmade, quality handicrafts representing the vocation of the activities which are characterizing this area. In the streets of Ghetto there are handcraft shops that manually perform high-quality products. The result of the synthesis also makes us see the hand, Jewish symbol, also known as "Miriam's hand", linked to the five books of the Torah.
