We organized a one day public action on the still not renovated part of the boulevard with invited both media and citizens to participate. The preparation included intensive cleaning of the abandoned tram rails, since they weren’t used in the last 3-4 years. We had a good media coverage including big local TV programs. The overall feedback was quite positive and even owners of cafes and restaurants at the boulevard showed interest into keeping our bike trolley as permanent attraction or advertising opportunity in public space.

Official reaction from the Municipality didn’t follow and later in 2014 the remaining rails were deconstructed and the boulevard was renovated as a pedestrian area.

Currently local people and NGOs are protesting against the municipal decision to cut another 2 km of a central tram line in order to secure car access to a new court building for the city. So the struggle for both public transportation and valuable public spaces in town continues…
