The contribution of Granary Square to Camden/ London – Councillor Phil Jones, Cabinet Member for Regeneration, Transport & Planning, London Borough of Camden
“Granary Square sets the standard for high quality new public space. Its early delivery created a family friendly destination and helped to change perceptions of the King’s Cross area at a time when most of the regeneration area was still under construction. The square is not only the most generously sized new public space of its kind in London, but the design and materials, water features and landscaping and beautiful setting combine to make it something truly special. It is a place that Camden and London can be proud of”.
