

WORTH: CKK "JORDANKI" AS A CULTURAL COVER LETTER OF TORUN

The building creates an intimate inner world, maintaining the fluid connection with the outside world, it behaves like a door. It allows users to go through it and reach a square which is the heart of the buildings site. The achieved fluency allows blurring the boundaries between private and public; in this type of project it is no longer possible the traditional distinction between public and private, giving the public space the multifunctionality according to the needs of today's society.

