B E F O R E

The former usage of carpentry workroom in the Soviet times was to maintain the housing stock and provide uninterrupted functioning of engineering equipment in dwelling houses. But with time passing the premises lost their intended purpose because the Unit was closed down.

These are main principles:

- > community-leading transformation
- > reuse of existing furniture and materials
- > minimization of making new elements

A F T E R

The former carpentry workroom has got a new meaning and turned its abandoned space into the epicenter of extraordinary events, a place of meeting and interaction of different people in the city.
