The one of the main value of space is its location. Namely in the middle of urban district. This neighbourhood, built in Soviet times, has no clearly defined boundaries, is not comfortable, doesn’t stimulate communication between the residents of nearby houses. Building surrounding grounds, which are more or less being taken care of, have no connection with each other. #Adapter can become an open public space of this urban district, a meeting place for neighbours from all the houses. The main physical obstacle is a chain of garages around the space.
